WHAT ARE AI VIOLATIONS?

Level one sanction: award a grade of "zero" or "F" for the assignment or examination for violations including but not limited to the following:

- Copying a few sentences of material (1-5 sentences) from a written or Internet source without proper citation.
- Cheating on a quiz or minor assignment (less than 10% of the final grade).
- Receiving unpermitted help on an assignment.
HOW TO AVOID A LEVEL ONE SANCTION

- Communicate with your instructor!
  - Ask if it is okay to work with a friend, compare answers, share documents, use an e-translator, or look up an answer using Internet sources.
  - Don’t do anything outside of class that you wouldn’t do in class in front of your instructor.

- Know your resources and use them!

AI VIOLATIONS

- Level two sanction: award a grade of "F!" for the course for violations including but not limited to the following:
  - Turning in a paper (Word document/Excel file) copied from another student or the Internet.
  - Copying material almost word for word from a written source and turning it in as one’s own work.
  - Getting questions or answers from someone who has taken an examination or using a secret website to obtain course materials.
  - Inappropriate use of technology (camera phones, text messaging, programmable calculator, etc.) during an examination.
  - Copying from another student during an examination.
  - Helping someone cheat on an examination.
• Read your course syllabus

• Don’t cheat during tests
  ▪ Listen and follow the instructor’s directions during the test.
    ▪ “Keep your eyes on your own paper”
    ▪ “No talking”
    ▪ “If you need a pencil, I have extras.”
  ▪ Do not sit by your friends during tests.
  ▪ Do not speak in your native language during tests or quizzes.

• Clear everything off your desk
Level three sanction: recommend dismissal from the graduate college and suspension from the University for the following types of violations:

- Plagiarism or other violations of academic integrity in a thesis or dissertation proposal, qualifying examination, comprehensive examination, thesis or dissertation, report for a creative component, thesis or dissertation defense, or professional education portfolio.
- Fabrication or falsification of research or laboratory data used in a creative component, report, thesis or dissertation.
 HOW TO AVOID LEVEL THREE SANCTION

- Cite the work of others.
  - Know the difference between plagiarism and paraphrasing.

- Do your own work.
  - You can ask others for help, but make sure you understand everything and you are the one typing or writing.

- Stress management
