VALID REASONS FOR F-1 STUDENTS TO DROP BELOW FULL-TIME STATUS

F-1 students are required to maintain full-time student status every semester they are in the United States. Undergraduate students are expected to complete 12 hours of course work during the fall and spring semesters. Graduate students need to complete 9 hours whether they have a 25% assistantship (or not) or 6 hours if they have a 50% assistantship. The Immigration Regulations only allows limited reasons for a student to carry less than full-time load.

GENERAL EXCEPTIONS

- Undergraduate students in their final semester [8 CFR 214.2(f)(6)(iii)(C)]. An undergraduate who needs fewer than 12 hours to complete his or her program of study may only enroll for the number of credit hours necessary for completion and still be considered to be pursuing a full course of study.

SPECIAL CIRCUMSTANCES

- Medical problems [8 CFR 214.2(f)(6)(iii)(B)]. A student who is compelled by illness or other medical conditions to interrupt or reduce a full course of study is considered to be in status if DSO secures the appropriate documentation prior to withdrawing or dropping classes. The student must resume a full course of study the following semester upon recovery. Requirement: Valid medical excuses must be documented with official letter from a medical professional (e.g., medical doctor, licensed psychologist, etc.) that includes a brief diagnosis and a recommendation for the student to drop or withdraw from classes. The medical condition cannot exceed 12 months per program level.

- Valid academic reasons [8 CFR 214.2(f)(6)(iii)(A)]. There are 3 categories of valid academic reasons:
  1. Initial difficulties with the English language or reading requirements. Usually this exception is applied for the beginning semester in the U.S.
  2. Unfamiliarity with American teaching methods. Usually this exception is applied for the beginning semester in the U.S.
  3. Improper course level placement. This phrase is generally interpreted to mean that a student does not have the proper prerequisites, which were required for the course. It has also been applied to cases where it can be documented that the student does not have the proper preparation or background for taking a class. Requirement: the professor or academic advisor must verify improper course level placement.

Special note to the F-1 student: Before dropping any class, we recommend that you discuss your situation with the professor and/or your academic advisor. Due to the new SEVIS requirements, it is essential that you obtain permission from the DSO prior to dropping or withdrawing from classes. The permission for a reduced course load will be noted on page 3 of your Form I-20. The normal procedures for dropping a class must be followed according to the instructions in the current OSU Class Schedule.

- Incompletes (I) and correspondence courses do not count toward full-time enrollment.
- Extension courses may count toward full-time enrollment if completed by the end of the current semester.

In general, permission to enroll in less than a full-time should occur rarely in a student’s career. According to the BCIS regulations the international student should be full-time during each fall and spring semester. However, there are special circumstances where a student with permission could take a reduced full course of study. See reserve side for more details.
